2004 – A Year of Cautious Optimism

To the Chinese, 2004 or 4701 by Chinese calendar, is the “Year of the Green Monkey”. If 2003 was the “year of uncertainty”, 2004 to Marcon will be the year of “cautious optimism”. From our perspective, 2003 was definitely not the best of years and not the worst – but earnings from sales were admittedly the lowest since 1998. In January 2003, we set a goal of 40 vessels and barges to be sold, an increase of 10 over the previous year. We met that goal, but unfortunately made less money while doing it. The market for offshore petroleum and towing vessels and barges was weak with few buyers digging deep into their pockets. Many vessels were sold at “bargain-basement” levels – and there were definitely a number of real bargains which sold for half of what even I thought were very attractive asking prices reflecting the depressed market.

2004 is starting out very good for Marcon with one vessel and one barge sold during the first week. Sales are pending on six additional vessels expected to close within the next 60 days plus a foreign shipyard is scheduled to start cutting steel for one of our clients in February on a newbuilding 4,000HP, 125’ azimuthing FiFi tug for delivery in Fall 2004. Being a shipbroker, we always see the glass half full vs. half empty, but I am still looking over my shoulder. I hope we can increase both the number of vessels sold and their average sales price during 2004, but have to admit that in certain market sectors the “blood-letting” of price reductions is expected to continue.

Most year-end articles review past events, pointing to every event, peak and valley in the economy. We have all just lived through that, are tired of it and definitely ready to move on. Many vessel operators over the last couple of years have been bouncing back and forth between looking for the turn-around and asking “are we there yet” when a positive report came out or “how much longer will this last” upon hearing negative news. We at Marcon hope that we are “there” now, wherever “there” is and that it will last, even as we recognize that the recovery is fragile. The Dow climbed 25% over 2003, the S&P 500 was up 26% and Nasdaq up 50% plus headlines and many politicians are still touting the 8.2% growth in U.S. GDP the third quarter; but comments from analysts and signs are still mixed. There are a lot of “what if’s” out there which could cause trouble. Even the “Year of the Green Monkey” theory of economics only gives a 50/50 prediction for a major improvement in 2004, but 50/50’s better than last year and we can prosper with that.
